HUNGER STRIKERS WEAKER

(By Associated Press)
CORK, Sept. 13.—The 1190 hunger strikers in the Cork jail were still alive today, but all of them were weaker and materially weaker. It was learned today that two government physicians on duty at the prison had received death threats.

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 13.—Rumors that the Irish hunger strikers in the Cork jail were being fed surreptitiously was denied in a Dublin dispatch to the Daily Mail, which declared that the only nourishment they are receiving is from oil with which they are rubbed to alleviate the pain they suffer due to wasting tissues.

AVE TO ONE CUTS THE QUARTZ VEIN

The vein that has been the objective of the Five-to-One tunnel since last October was cut a few days ago, but an announcement was not made by the company until Saturday. Ore was not found, says the Goldfield Tribune of Saturday, but there is exposed the footwall side of what everyone who has seen it pronounces one of the strongest and most promising veins found in the district in recent years. The vein is composed of talc and quartz and is heavily mineralized with what is said to be iron oxide of a gold color so perfect that it has fooled some of the best miners in Goldfield. No assays have been taken, but so far as known the vein has no appreciable gold content, although it is possible good assays could be secured from some parts of it. Much of the talc is stained red and brown.

The crosscut has been driven into the vein only a few feet, but far enough to show distinctly a perfect wall and the character of the material on each side. After having been in shattered, caving porphyry for a short distance, the tunnel entered the talc and quartz, and the long haul, the success of which has been doubted by many, was evident.

While the work was being done in the crosscut, visitors were not allowed to enter the tunnel, but it is again open, and anyone desiring to do so may inspect the vein, in which mining men are taking great interest.

With the main object, the cutting of the vein, accomplished, drifts will be driven in a search for an ore shoot. The vein, which outcrops practically at the peak of the hill, was found exactly where it had been estimated it would be cut.

The finding of the vein is considered of great importance for several reasons, principally because it is the source of the gold in the seams that had been cut continually for 202 feet, and it disposes of the puzzle that would have confronted Drake, Raymond and Spangle, the three men driving the tunnel, if some possible source of the enrichment had not been found. This is the third vein which has been cut, although the others were much narrower, and the tunnel will be discontinued and drifts started as soon as the hanging wall has been reached. Indications are that the vein will be found to be of good width.

MRS. CORA MARIS PASSED AWAY

At 1:20 o'clock this morning, the spirit of Mrs. Cora Maris, wife of Omar Maris, passed to the great beyond. This estimable woman was brought in from Manhattan several days ago and operated upon at the Mine Operators' hospital. But little hope was entertained for her recovery and, surrounded by her husband and children, the sad end came at the above hour this morning. The deceased had resided in Manhattan for many years and was universally loved by all the residents of that camp, and her demise will be keenly felt in many a household. The sympathy of the community is extended to the relatives in this their hour of sorrow.

Mrs. Maris was born at Milford, Indiana, on April 27, 1885. She lived in Indiana until 1906, when she came to Manhattan with her husband and children. She was married on July 29, 1885, at Roseville, Indiana, and is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sherman, her husband, a brother, Harry Sherman, and the following children: Mrs. E. F. Garalde, Tonopah; Mrs. E. G. Stevie, Chico, California; Miss Faith Maris, New York city; Robert R. Maris, Tonopah.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. F. Garalde, Idaho and McCollough streets. Committal services will be held at the cemetery with the wishes of the deceased, service will be private with only relatives present. Friends of the deceased and family are invited to accompany the remains from the house to the cemetery.

ELKO MAY TAKE OVER WATER WORKS

At a special meeting of the Elko supervisors on Saturday evening, called for the purpose of considering the proposition submitted by W. T. Smith for the purchase of the water works, favorable action was taken in the matter, and the city board authorized Attorney Milton B. Baidt and Otto T. Williams to draw up the necessary resolutions in regard to the purchase of the same. The action of the supervisors is heralded with great joy by the majority of the people of the city of Elko, as it is now a certainty that steps will be taken to assure an adequate supply of water for the city. Many things can be done for the growth and betterment of the city, but everything has hinged on the water question.

Nearly every proposition that has come up which would be for the advancement of the city has been put off because the supply of water was not adequate and the city was at a standstill as far as growth was concerned. With an adequate supply of water there is no reason that Elko cannot and will not grow rapidly, and we predict that with such supply Elko will have at least a population of 10,000 in the next 10 years.—Elko Free Press

GO TO SCHOOL OR TO WORK

Attorney General Foxworth of the state of Nevada has interpreted the state school law as follows: This act, approved March 25, 1919, provides for the compulsory education of all children up to the age of 18 years. Under this age minors are required to attend school, except when employed and employed minors must attend part-time classes. Nothing in this act is to be construed as permitting a child under 18 years of age to remain out of school when not employed. The young people must either attend school or at work. This means that all minors who have not received a high school diploma must be employed in some gainful occupation or must be in school. Those under 16 years of age must attend the common schools, while those over 16 years attend the high school.

The law further provides that vocational courses shall be offered for these students. The Lincoln county high school is making ample provision to care for them. The faculty has installed three new courses to meet this requirement: one course in agriculture to meet the needs of those boys who wish to make scientific farming their life's work; a second course in manual training for those boys who are mechanically inclined; also a third course in domestic science to care for the needs of the girls.

"I have been amazed at the results achieved in our irrigation and reclamation projects, some of which I have seen for the first time in my pilgrimage to the western coast, and I am appalled by the thought that selfish partisanship in the United States senate would make it necessary for us to continue building big armaments when the amount necessary to expand in that program would increase the productive acreage of the United States by hundreds of thousands of square miles."

The governor said that if he were elected he will ask congress for authority to appoint a budget commissioner and would urge upon congress the desirability of accepting the budget system and the creation of a budget committee.

Hays said there would be no barnstorming and no change had taken place in the plans announced a month ago.

Hays said he did not believe Harding would speak in every state where there is a contest for United States senator. Such a course would entail going to Utah, Nevada, California, Washington and other far western states which are looked upon as Republican strongholds this year, he said, and did not need the personal presence of the presidential nominee.

SCHOOL BOARD MAKES REPORT

At a meeting of the board of school trustees held on Saturday afternoon, it was ordered that drinking fountains be installed in the frame school building opposite the high school building. During the winter months, when it is impossible to turn on the water in the outdoor fountain, it has been necessary for the children of the frame building to go to the concrete building to get their drinking water. The installation of the fountains will relieve this condition and the teachers and pupils of those rooms will appreciate this action of the board.

The superintendent's report of conditions for the first week of school showed that the beginners' class had already enrolled 55 pupils, or practically double the number any one teacher should have in a room of beginners. The board decided to divide the class and open another room with an additional teacher. The board then proceeded to elect Miss Ruth Averill as additional teacher. At present Miss Averill is teaching the school at Dyer, Nevada, until the board there can secure a teacher. As soon as she is free there the new room will be opened for the one section of beginners here. Until then the beginners will come only a half day each—one section coming in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon.

The board took under advisement the matter of replacing the floor in the high school gymnasium with a hardwood floor. The present floor is becoming badly worn and it will be necessary to replace it within the near future. Mr. Ninnia, the clerk of the board, was appointed as a committee to investigate the cost of laying a hardwood floor. It goes without saying that the high school is eager to know the decision of the board as to the new floor, since for the past two years it has been necessary to hold dancing parties in halls with suitable floors.

The University of Nevada weekly journal, for the scholastic year 1920-21, gives the honor roll for the second semester of the past year. Miss Letta Sloan, of Tonopah, is given as one of the honor students. Her average standing for the entire semester in all subjects was 1.25 or better. As the highest grade given is 1, her standing is remarkably good. In addition to carry more than the normal hours of work in the university, Miss Sloan acted as assistant librarian in the university library. Tonopah high school is proud of the showing made by Miss Sloan.
